Exchange Your Cotton Seed for Meal.

Director R. J. Redding of the Georgia Experiment Station, says:

"Cotton Seed Meal is a cheaper and more effective fertilizer than cotton seed."

"A farmer should never use cotton seed directly as a fertilizer when he may exchange it for a fair equivalent of meal."

"According to chemical analysis of each, 886 pounds of cotton seed meal are about the equivalent in content of plant food, to 2000 pounds of cotton seed. But owing to the superior mechanical condition of the meal and its consequently greater, or more prompt availability, it is safe to assume that 800 pounds of meal are the full equivalent to one ton of seed.

Therefore, whatever excess above 800 pounds of meal the farmer can get in exchange for a ton of seed, or by selling the seed and buying the meal, less the cost of hauling or freight ing, is so much clear profit in comparison with using the seed directly as a fertilizer."

Director Redding has proven by actual field experiments that the above statements are right, and by exchanging your seed with us you can realize nearly 100 per cent. profit on the transaction.

SAW HIS OPPORTUNITY.

The Reporter Seized It and Got His Real Start in Life.

All the city traveling public loves a strap hanger because it has a fellow feeling for him. This is why the story of how Frank Vanderlip, the banker, got his start has an almost universal appeal. It happened when Vanderlip was a reporter on a Chicago newspaper and writing financial news. The traction situation then, as now, was almost impossible. Charles T. Yerkes was traction dictator, and the stockholders and the public never had a word to say in the conduct of the roads. Nor could they get any definite idea of the financial condition of the properties.

The time for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the principal and came about. At all the meetings Mr. Yerkes had rattled off the reports in the usual unimpeachable corporation way, and no one knew what was doing. So Vanderlip planned a coup. He bought a share of stock, which admitted him to the meeting. He had been a stenographer before he became a newspaper man. When Mr. Yerkes sailed into his breezy explanation of finances the young reporter took down everything he said. Mr. Yerkes used one striking phrase, and it was this:

"The passengers who have seats pay the operating expenses, but the strap hangers pay your dividends." The next day the sentence topped Vanderlip's account of the meeting. It aroused a storm of discussion, for it laid bare some of the traction methods; also it got Vanderlip a raise in salary and a promotion—Saturday Evening Post.

French Bulletin.

The number of phrases of the class called "bulls" to be found in polite works are not all the product of the Irish brain.

A novel that was crowned by the French academy as possessed of unusual merit contained a sentence of which the following is a translation:

"It was midnight. A man who lay in ambush listened to their conversation, but suddenly a dense, dark cloud passed in front of the moon and prevented him from hearing more."

Another phrase, written in downright seriousness by a master of French criticism, runs something like this:

"It was one of those duels in which one of the blades literally buries itself in the heart of the other."—Minneapolis Journal.

Tears and Joy.

Under the title "Tears of Joy" George Friedlander writes to a Berlin paper that the custom of "weeping and howling on all occasions of great joy was general among the early inhabitants of America" and that in many tribes visited by him in South America the approved form of welcome was still to weep. "Tears of welcome," he says, are also shed by the natives of the Caribbean islands and by the Sioux, Algonquins and other North American Indians. From all that I have seen, I judge that in times past tears and joy were inseparable and that the emotion which civilized people now display at parting was once the expression of hearty welcome."

Made It Complete.

When Labache, the famous operatic singer, was presented to Queen Victoria her majesty, who had heard of the artist's bobby, asked if it was true that he had a large collection of snuff-boxes. He replied that it was correct. He had one for every day in the year—365.

"Nevertheless, your collection is not quite complete," was the queen's response. "Here is another for leap year."—Pearson's Weekly.

A tickling Cough from any cause, is quickly soothed by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation even to very young babies. The whole-some green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes no opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the doctor uses, "The sacred herb," demand Dr. Shoop's take no other. W. E. Brown & Co.

Capping Verses.

On going into the rooms of one of his friends who was absent Dr. Mansel saw on the table the opening lines of a poem in the following lofty style:

The sun's perpendicular heat Illumined the depths of the sea.

Taking up a pen, he completed the stanza in the following witty way:

The fishes, beginning to sweat, Cried, "Hang it, how hot we shall be!"

Dr. Watson, regius professor of divinity, had at one time been tutor of Trinity, and when he was made bishop of Landaff an honest publican in Cambridge, who kept an inn called the Bishop Blaise, out of respect to Dr. Watson changed his sign and replaced the head of Bishop Blaise by that of Bishop Watson. This transfer drew from Mansel, who probably had some grudge against the late tutor, the following epigram:

Two of a trade can never agree—No proverb ever was juster. They've taken down Blaise, you see, And put up Bishop Blaise.

One of the best formulas ever can be made by a combination of Kerosene Oil, Syntia, Thimble, Origanum, Ether and Ammonia. When these different oils are made into an emulsion it is the most penetrating of all liniments. Elliott's Emulsified Oil Liniment is made from the above formula and is put up in half pint bottles in yellow package and sell for 25c. a bottle. Sold underground at W. E. Brown & Co.

SHORN LAMBS.

Ways of the Men Who Lose Their All in Wall Street.

What becomes of the men who lose in Wall street. They are seldom heard of. The visitor to New York gets the notion that the gay crowd of men at the Waldorf—the "uptown street"—comprises them all. But this crowd is altogether misrepresentative and has no true sign value, says a writer on Wall street in the New Broadway Magazine.

You can retain your equilibrium easily in watching them by remembering that Runner of New Britain is hiding somewhere, a fugitive from justice; that Jumper of Milwaukee is in prison; that there are many other men who went down hard with big crashes, and that for every one of the big men there are 10,000 little men whose losses are smaller, but not a whit less fatal.

You would find some of them tonight in New York, if you knew in what window to look, gazing anxiously and endlessly, looking over insurance papers to see if further loans are admissible.

Their wives are sewing; their daughters are studying stenography. You will find others hanging about hotel lobbies, and the moment you catch their eye or grip their hands you know that they are nervous, distraught, broke, restless—typical Wall street victims.

The others, professionals, parasites, satellites, winners, you will find in the cafes and hotel restaurants, making up a large part of the crowds at Sheraton and Delmonico's, Martin's and Rector's, the Waldorf, Manhattan, Astor, St. Regis and Holland House. Wall street by day demands the Great White Way at night. From the moment the market opens all its close the game is a fast and furious one of sharp trickery, clever dodging, rallery, bluffing, hypocrisy, lying.

Nerves are constantly tense; the brain must be clear and quick at every move. Successful lying uses every matter, and the flash and festivity of the Tenderloin night are just unnatural enough to fit in and offer the kind of recreation desired.

When you see the name Rydale in an advertisement or on a remedy it is a sign that the remedy advertised is compounded from the prescription of a specialist. A specialist in a certain disease knows more about and is better fitted to treat that disease than anyone else, and that is the reason why the Rydale remedy never fails to relieve and so often cures the troubles for which they are recommended. Rydale's Stomach Tablets, for Indigestion and Dyspepsia; Rydale's Liver Tablets for liver and bowels; Rydale's Tonic, for a system builder and Cough Syrup, for all ordinary Coughs and bronchial trouble, are four prescriptions of the best specialists and will do all that medicine can do. DOING EUROPE.

This Tourist Seemed to Have a Mania For Souvenirs.

I had met Jones before. In fact, meeting him had become a sort of habit. The first time I saw him he was hanging by his feet, as apoplectic, on the balcony of the Whitechapel ghetto, and through the window of an alley tavern I noticed two men drinking stout. One was a "bobby" in uniform. His eyes were bleared and his face purple. The profile of the other looked familiar. I walked in and behold—Jones. The policeman, startled by my intrusion, brought himself together and rumbled out: Jones turned to me with a look of vast reproach.

"Glad to see you again, old man, but—why in the deuce couldn't you stay away a little longer? I'd have had it in half an hour more."

"Had what?"

"Why, his club. Lord, what a souvenir that would have made!"

Our ways parted again for awhile. I was riding a wheel over the crest of the Black forest near Titisee, pumping slowly to the top of the long, white road. A pine cone struck my handle bar, another knocked my hat off, and I looked up. A local noise emitted a Tyrolean halloo with much uncouthness, and I saw a swaying speck silhouetted against a cloud. My instinct told me it was Jones.

"Hey, old man!" he yelled, trumpeting through his hand, "take my picture—quick. You're just in time. Can't hold on much longer. Camera's at foot of tree. Lost it halfway up."

His camera was smashed, so I used my own. "Were you expecting me?" I asked when he shinned down, with barked hands and frayed trousers.

"No, not exactly. Look here—biggest pine cone in Germany, from the tallest tree on top of the highest hill in the Schwarzwald. There's something worth while."

I admitted it, and we stood surveying the panorama of mounded hills and deep cut gorges full of the sound of falling water.

"Lovely!" I murmured.

"What? Oh, yes, I s'pose it is. But say—I wonder if I couldn't find a bigger cone somewhere in these parts. Let's move on."—Wilfred H. Auburn in Outlook Magazine.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organs or their direct organs, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specially prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is scanty, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other disease of the kidneys, or if you are a sufferer from any of the diseases mentioned above, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. You will see what it can do for you. Druggist recommend and sell.
